

Business Architecture

Fast Track for Mergers and Acquisition

We use a reliable, repeatable methodology within The Business Framework and our Business Architecture Center of Excellence (BACOE) certified consultants, to model processes and systems, and identify redundancies and areas for improved efficiency.

As mergers and acquisitions occur, leaders need reliable resources to help assess the impacts to their business architecture. To help reduce the costs associated with such events, BACOE collaborates with your organization to examine the impacts of mergers and acquisitions, using Business Architecture for this understanding, and assessing these action's impact on your organization's current and proposed operating environments.

We also assist you with aligning information technology (IT) with your business strategy, and with reducing costs related to mergers and acquisitions. We help identify areas that represent projected redundancy and unaligned systems. We also identify and prioritize targeted areas for improved business and IT efficiency.

Using BACOE certified architects and associated methods, we work with your organization to analyze the current business and BA, review new and existing artifacts, model business processes, and inventory systems to conduct detailed analysis.

We work with your organization to develop a plan for the future that focuses on improving IT efficiency, realigning acquired IT resources to the business strategy, and reducing cost across the organization.
